

WASC 440

WASC 440
WAI 98

These cottages were for workmen employed in the Royal Gunpowder Factory and were demolished c1900.

During demolition, a tempera picture of Jonah and the whale was uncovered. This was later placed in the London Museum.

The Superintendent's House has since been built on the site.

WASC 0440
WAI 0098-01

These cottages were for workmen employed in the Royal Gunpowder Factory and were demolished c1900.

During demolition, a tempera picture of Jonah and the whale was uncovered. This was later placed in the London Museum. (see WASC 0441, WAI 0099-01)

The Superintendent's House has since been built on the site.